

BRUNO'S "DAY IN COURT" NEARS

Administration Is Irrate
By Little Time Farley
Spends at His Desk

WASHINGTON — James Aloysius Farley is a busy man these days. His goings and comings oscillate with as much regularity as the rhythm of his jaws.

On Tuesdays it is a safe bet he will be in town for Cabinet meeting. On Tuesday night it is an equally safe bet he will be on the midnight sleeper to New York. On Friday he will be back for a Cabinet meeting. And Friday night he will be off again.

Jim is extremely busy—in fact prides himself on being busy. But the time he spends at the expansive mahogany desk in the beautiful paneled office, for which he thanks Herbert Hoover, is almost nil.

All of which is getting to be one of the major inside scandals of the Administration. It is not that Jim is doing anything shady. It is the fact that as Postmaster General Jim is doing hardly anything at all.

The result is that along with the Justice Department, the Post Office has won the reputation of having the blackest mark of any in the entire New Deal.

Business Pride
The funny thing about it is that Jim prides himself on being a businessman. To make a record for himself as an efficient Postmaster is supposedly his greatest aim.

Very early in his business career, Jim tied his fate to gypsum, an essential ingredient in making plaster, and at one time was the foremost gypsum salesman in New York City.

In fact, so successful was Jim that he became manager of the Universal Gypsum Company, then blossomed forth with James A. Farley and Company, dealers in all forms of building materials, and eventually amalgamated seven other companies into one of the most important building supply companies in New York.

Whether Jim's phenomenal rise in the business world was due to the fact that he was also a power in New York politics and that politics and contracting frequently go hand-in-hand, is not recorded on the books of his company.

The important fact, however, is that when Jim became Postmaster General, he considered himself a great businessman and set out to make a record as such. To this end he pared costs to the bone. He fired postal employees right and left. He reduced services. He put force policies exactly the reverse of his Chief in the White House who was urging private business to increase wages and reduce hours.

And after one hectic year, Jim finally came forth with the joyous announcement that he had closed his books with a surplus of $12,161,415.03.

This was just like sticking out an unprotected jaw to Republican critics. They gleefully came back with figures showing that actually he had a deficit of more than $52,000,000.

Jim's ledgerdom had been accomplished by omitting the cost of franked mail, ocean and air mail contracts.

Stamp Camouflage
The actual fact is that underneath an elaborate camouflage created by selling ornate new stamp issues, Jim Farley's Post Office Department has reached the lowest state of inefficiency in years.

Complaints from businessmen have swamped the Administration. Deliveries are sometimes two or three days behind schedule. Even in the city of Washington letters have required two days to go from one Department to another.

What Jim forgot was the human element. Despite the tremendous mechanization of the postal system, it cannot function efficiently without efficient, willing workers. And Jim has ground his postal em-

Floods Imperil Scores in Southern Area

The coldest weather of the winter was reported in Circleville this morning when Dr. H. R. Clarke's government thermometer registered one degree above zero. Some uptown thermometers showed zero and several residents of the county reported it was below that mark on their farms.

By International News Service
Cataclysmic storms and arctic cold gripped the northern United States from Seattle to New York today, leaving many dead, visiting extreme suffering on untold thousands, costing municipalities and individuals hundreds of thousands of dollars and disrupting the nation's communication and transportation machinery.

A high barometric area in the middle west and another in the Rockies moving rapidly east inundated sections of Washington and Oregon with cloudbursts, froze the middle west with ten below zero temperature which caused an estimated death toll of 25, and struck New York with the worst blizzard since the legendary storm of 1888.

MANY TOWNS FLOODED
On the west coast the great Columbia river poured over its banks and flooded scores of towns.

Schools were closed in Minnesota when the temperature went 38 degrees below in the city of Duluth and lower in other parts of the state.

The toll of the blizzard in New York was six dead and many injured. The snow drifted high along Broadway and other principal thoroughfares and crippled the metropolis.

Thousands were unable to get to their New York offices from the suburbs, crippling great business houses, and with roads blocked the transportation of food to communities ordinarily less than 45 minutes from Broadway became an urgent problem.

At Iroquois Falls, Ontario, the mercury went to 73 below, one of the coldest temperatures ever recorded anywhere in the world.

The same blizzard which struck New York buried all New England

WRECK RESULTS IN $15,000 SUIT

A suit for $15,000 as the result of an automobile collision at Route 104 and 22 Oct. 19, 1934, was on file in common pleas court today.

It was brought by George J. Plageman, 5010 Western Hills, Cincinnati, against William Merritt, 2231 Lexington-ave, Springfield.

Joseph W. Adkins, Jr., represents the plaintiff.

Plageman charges Merritt recklessly operated his automobile striking his (Plageman's) De Sota car and driving it against a telephone pole. The plaintiff charges he received permanent injuries and spent much time in Berger hospital and Good Samaritan hospital, Cincinnati.

Six items charging negligence on Merritt's part are listed in the petition.

HOLMANS IN STORE
Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Holman today took over management of their drug store in the Masonic temple building. The store has been operated by Charles P. Miller.

FINE SUSPENDED
William Brown, 18, this city, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady but the fine was suspended on Brown's promise not to return to court again. He was arrested for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

1,600 Square Miles of Chinese Territory Taken; Fear New Annexation

PEIPING, Jan. 24—With 50 Chinese and 19 Japanese dead or wounded, 4,000 Japanese and Manchukuan troops today halted their drive into Chahar province.

Pushing disorganized Chinese forces back in a two-day offensive the Manchukuo-Japanese troops swept over a 25-mile front, and seized control of 1,600 square miles of Chinese territory.

The towns of Kuyuan and Tungshatze capitulated yesterday after a bombardment by airplanes and light artillery, and today the armored cars of the Japanese rolled into Tushihkow, strategic town controlling a mountain pass and a gate in the great wall.

Peiping was in terror, and officials were engaged in frantic efforts to bring peace, especially since General Chueh-Yuan, governor of Chahar, is in Peiping, unable to lead his troops.

Japanese authorities said the troop movements were ordered to enforce an ultimatum issued to General Sung to remove garrisons

TAGS STOLEN FROM DEAD MAN LOCATED

The sheriff's office today was trying to clear up numerous angles concerning a Ford touring car which has been standing in Darby creek under the bridge on Route 104 since before Christmas.

The Ford in the last few days has been towed to the residence of Wayne Hoover, Jackson-twp.

Checking up the license numbers and motor number of the car it has been learned that the plates were stolen from the car of Francis Merz, auctioneer, whose body was found dead stuffed in a barrel in Cincinnati several weeks ago.

The tags had been transferred to the Ford which, it was learned, belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinkle, Columbus. The Hinkle car had been stolen.

The state sheriff's wtyop structured Sheriff Charles Radcliff to try to find fingerprints on the machine, but since the car has been standing out so long it is believed impossible to find fingerprints.

3 LOST AT SEA

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 24—Three men were drowned today when the barge Pattie Morrisette foundered during a snowstorm off five fathom lighthouse on the Delaware coast. Coastguard headquarters here reported the cutter Champlain was standing by but unable to attach a line to the barge because of the ice.

GRAHAM ARRESTED
John Graham, this city, was lodged in the county jail Thursday by Juvenile Officer Frank Goff to await a hearing before Judge C. C. Young for violation of parole. Graham faces a sentence to the boys' industrial school.

CRITES ACTION FOR RECEIVER IN SECOND DAY

Plaintiff Spends Many Hours on Stand During Cross Examination

SONS COME NEXT

Tells of His Numerous Business Interests

The rise and fall of the immense Crites interests in Pickaway and adjoining counties were written in the common pleas court record today as attorneys for Crites, Inc., holding company of creditors of H. M. Crites, continued lengthy and exacting cross examination of Mr. Crites, principal witness in receivership action against the creditors' organization.

CONTINUES FRIDAY
The action started Wednesday morning, was to continue through Thursday and probably the greater part of Friday. Crites, Inc.'s attorneys were not presenting any witnesses but were carrying on stringent cross examination of those presented by the plaintiff.

Edwin Jones, Washington C. H. realtor, was a plaintiff witness Wednesday afternoon telling of the transaction of the Crites land in Madison-co which he bought from the Prudential Insurance Co. then sold to Col. William Cooper Proctor. Jones cleared $40,000 on the deal. Crites Inc.'s attorneys, Proctor, bought the 11 farms for $246,000 and selling them to Proctor for $286,000.

C. C. Traux, former mill operator on W. Main-st, testified prior to Jones giving information concerning the value of Mr. Crites' mill properties which Crites charges were sold at a price much too low by Crites Inc.

The defense began cross examination of Mr. Crites at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday and questioned him until 5 o'clock. He took the stand again Thursday morning and was still there after noon with cross examination taking the entire time.

SONS TO FOLLOW

Mr. Crites' sons, Meinhard and George, were scheduled to testify after their father with the defense again to do considerable cross examining.

The trial is proving an object lesson to many of the city's embryo attorneys. Several have been in the courtroom at all times since the trial opened. The array of attorneys is probably more brilliant than has been in the local court room at any one time in recent years.

NEW HOLLAND, Jan. 24—Approximately 200 names, including virtually all of New Holland's business and professional men, leading farm owners and tenants and other interested persons were signed to a petition to Pickaway-co Common Pleas Judge Joseph W. Adkins, in the interests of the New Holland canning factory and H. M. Crites its owner and operator for many years.

Expressing an almost unanimous approval of the operations of the local canning plant in the past years, under the supervision of Mr. Crites, the document asked Judge Adkins' utmost consideration for Mr. Crites to operate the plant again this year.

The factory is one of several properties in the bedlam of civil actions being heard in common pleas court with Mr. and Mrs. Crites as the plaintiffs and Crites, Inc., a holding company comprised of Crites' creditors.

Not only do the Crites' wish to have the holding company and its transactions nullified but they are seeking to regain all properties sold by Crites, Inc.

ROTARIANS HEAR MISS MAY'S TALK

Miss Alice Ada May gave a very interesting talk before the Rotary club at its meeting Thursday on "Is Japan A Menace?"

The Rotary club members signed a petition presented by the B. P. O. Elks lodge memorializing congress to act against communism.

BOOK FROM HOOVER

Col. E. S. Thatcher, of Jackson-twp, has received from Ex-president Herbert Hoover an autographed copy of his book, "A Challenge to Liberty."

UNDERWOOD MAY BE NAMED JUDGE

Congressman Mel G. Underwood was being mentioned today as the possible successor to the late Common Pleas Judge T. D. Price, of Perry-co, who died last week.

Governor Martin L. Davey will appoint Price's successor and it is said Underwood can have the job if he wants it.

If he should take the position, providing it is offered, the 11th Ohio district will be without representation in the U. S. congress.

Others mentioned as possible successors to Judge Price include W. A. Allen and U. S. McGonagle, New Lexington; D. T. Trew, Shawnee; W. A. Lentz, Crooksville, and E. P. Walser, Somerset.

NINE TO TAKE FARM CENSUS

Gehres Appoints Pickaway-co Workers; Committee Endorsements Followed

Nine persons were appointed enumerators today by E. C. Gehres, supervisor of the seventh Ohio district of the farm enumeration. They will serve Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee. The ninth was Joseph C. Peters, Muhlenberg-twp, named in place of Jesse Pitt, who was endorsed.

The other enumerators named by Gehres were:

William H. Hulise, Jackson-twp; C. O. Smith, Madison-twp; Wilbur V. Pontius, Pickaway-twp; William Beavers, Scioto-twp; William Goode, Washington-twp; Worley Timmons, Monroe-twp; Roy White, Darby-twp; Harmon Stevenson, Perry-twp, and Miss Mary Armstrong, Salter Creek-twp.

START THIS MONTH

The census will start yet this month and will be completed during February.

There are 100 inquiries on the farm schedule to be used by the enumerators.

NAME CAPONE IN MASSACRE

Bolton, Held in Kidnaping, Names Killers in St. Valentine's Day Atrocity

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—Alphonse Capone, imprisoned gang overlord, may be brought from Alcatraz island penitentiary to answer for the ghastly St. Valentine's day massacre of seven Moran gangsters here in 1929.

This was the possibility that loomed today following the disclosure by International News Service that Byron Bolton, now a federal prisoner, had made a detailed statement concerning the massacre to department of justice agents. Bolton and five others were named as the killers.

While police officials began to re-shuffle their scanty evidence in the gruesome mass murder federal officials were said to be hopeful of linking Capone to the crime with the object of sending him to the electric chair, if possible.

Those named as the actual murderers who lined seven of

PUBLIC WORK FUND DEADLINE IS FEB. 11

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Officials of every taxing subdivision in Ohio have been notified to submit their requests for Public Works Administration aid in new projects before Feb. 11. L. A. Boulay, Ohio administrator announced today.

The requests for PWA aid must be filed with the state administration here before Feb. 11 if they are to be sought as part of the federal $4,000,000 public works program, Boulay said.

Officials of cities, villages, counties, township bodies, schools and conservancy districts were notified to prepare lists of proposed PWA projects.

Projects that will have permanent value as improvements will receive prior consideration, the state official estimated.

Fights to Free Lea

Born to millions, Mrs. Luke Lea of Nashville, Tenn., has just sold her last possession, a portrait of her father, for money to continue her fight for release from the penitentiary of her husband, former Senator Luke Lea. Her father was Perry Warner, utility magnate.

Lea left her $55, all that was left of a $10,000,000 fortune, when he went to prison in North Carolina last May for violation of banking laws.

And then the defense begins. Attorney Lloyd Fisher of the defense will make the opening statement to the jury in Hauptmann's behalf.

The big moment of the trial will come soon afterward. That will be when the defense calls the name of the most important witness of all: Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

CALL WARDEN IN PEN PROBE

"Ready to Answer All Questions," Thomas Says; Daughter May Be Next

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Asserting that "I am ready to answer all questions," Warden Preston E. Thomas, for 20 years head of Ohio penitentiary, today took the witness chair in Governor Martin L. Davey's "sweeping investigation" into conditions at the state prison.

Frazier Reams, Lucas-co prosecutor and Governor Davey's special investigator in the probe, conducted the questioning.

The warden was faced with the dual task of explaining conflicting testimony of prison employees and replying to charges that gangster Thomas (Yonnie) Licavoli was shown "favoritism."

Later during the investigation, Reams was expected to call Warden Thomas' daughter, Miss Amanda Thomas, for questioning.

Survivor of eight previous investigations into his regime as prison head, Warden Thomas faced the ordeal of the latest probe with confidence.

Warden Thomas will deny that he threatened reprisals against convicts who testify against him.

After the warden testifies, his daughter, mail clerk at the prison, will be called to explain why Licavoli was allowed to write an unusual number of letters as Guard Elmer Dee had testified. Several convicts also may be called today if time permits.

Later in the hearing, Reams said he would develop his charges that Licavoli through the frequent visits was able to control his gangs in northwestern Ohio even while in prison and intimidated that evidence may tend to show that organized gangs have their own "parole fixers."

2 FINED IN THEFT

George Stevens and Frank Lewis, Tarleton, were fined and sent to the county jail for receiving stolen property. Wednesday, when they were given hearings in Squire H. O. Eveland's court.

Stevens was fined $200 and costs and given 30 days' time. They were involved in theft of the automobile of Ed Parrish last October.

Marriage Licenses

SKIDS, HITS POLE

A Lexington, Ky. man escaped injury Wednesday afternoon when his automobile skidded while entering E. Main-st from the Lancaster-pk and struck a telephone pole.

MUST REFUTE STRONG FACTS CITING GUILT

State to Complete Case This Afternoon With Minor Witnesses

KOEHLER ON STAND

Eight Angles Bind Hauptmann to Abduction

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24—It's now up to Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

The state's case against him is just about in. A little more testimony today from Arthur J. Koehler, the United States government's star wood expert, a brief cross-examination by the defense, the calling of two more minor state witnesses and then the prosecution will rest—probably early this afternoon.

And then the defense begins. Attorney Lloyd Fisher of the defense will make the opening statement to the jury in Hauptmann's behalf.

The big moment of the trial will come soon afterward. That will be when the defense calls the name of the most important witness of all: Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

MAY BE DELAYED

Just when Hauptmann will walk to the witness stand was a matter of conjecture this morning. He may do so late today but most likely not until tomorrow morning. The defense would rather put him on early in the day when he's fresh and rested.

Hauptmann, first witness for the defense, will have his chance to refute—if he can—the mass of evidence piled up against him in the past twenty-two days. He denies he kidnapped and killed the Lindbergh baby, that he wrote the ransom notes, that he collected the $50,000 ransom or that he was in any way implicated in the crime.

In a word he says he is innocent. The story Hauptmann will tell on the stand therefore becomes a matter of extreme importance. It is a story the entire world is waiting to hear. It will have to be good. It will have to be more than a general denial to impress the jury of four women and eight men who for more than three weeks have been listening to powerful evidence put into the record against the 37-year old carpenter.

Hauptmann has a lot of things to explain away. Chief among them is the incriminating fact that $15,000 of the ransom money was found in his possession.

Other strong pieces of state evidence Hauptmann must combat are:

1.—Testimony of Dr. John F. ("Jafie") Condon, that Hauptmann was the mysterious "John" to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, on the night of April 2, 1932.

2.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's identification of Hauptmann's voice as that which called "Hey, Doctor," to Condon the

71 MEASURES ARE PLACED IN HOPPER OF OHIO ASSEMBLY

BRICKER WINS SAFETY RACE

Files Bill For New Department Ahead of Davey; Would Exempt Food

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Legislative hoppers of the Ohio house of representatives bulged today under the weight of 71 bills introduced at the first opportunity for presentation of new measures.

Outranking all others in the degree to which it would affect every resident of Ohio was a bill by Rep. W. M. Boyd (D) Cleveland to exempt all food, except that sold in restaurants, from the general 3 per cent sales tax. At present only milk and bread are exempted foodstuffs. Collection of the sales tax will begin next Sunday.

BRICKER HAS BILL

Attorney General Bricker, a Republican, won a race with Governor Davey, a Democrat, to be the first to introduce a bill creating a statewide law-enforcement agency. Bricker's measure was sponsored by Rep. Myron Gessaman, Columbus, the Republican House floor leader.

In line with a stand taken by Governor Davey, the $1 gallonage tax on liquor sold by the state monopoly would be repealed by a bill introduced by Rep. Lawrence Kane, (R) Cincinnati. Another bill by Kane proposes to cut the beer tax from $1.50 a barrel to 75 cents.

Two measures setting up a system of unemployed insurance found their way into the House hopper, one sponsored by Rep. Sydney Hesse (D) Cleveland, was essentially the same as one considered by the last legislature, and the other by Rep. J. E. Curtin (D) Maumee, corresponds to that proposed in the Senate by Rep. John Hunter (D) Toledo.

Payments to unemployed under the House insurance proposals would be 50 per cent of a worker's weekly wages, but could not exceed $15. Total benefits in any consecutive 12 months could not exceed 16 times the benefit for one full week of unemployment.

Employers would be assessed 2 per cent of their annual payroll beginning Jan. 1, 1936, under the Curtin bill. After Jan. 1, 1939, premiums would be affixed by the state unemployment insurance commission at not to exceed 3 1-2 per cent of the payroll.

TWO NEW DISTRICTS

Rep. George Harter (D) Akron, tossed in the first bill to create two new Ohio congressional districts, one of the most controversial subjects likely to come before this session. Under the Harter bill there would be 24 congressional districts.

His colleague, Rep. E. S. Rose

(R) Akron, proposed the legalization of book-making on races and baseball games, with licenses to be issued by the state racing commission for a fee of $1,000 a year. Proceeds from licensing would go to the city or subdivision where the bookmaker operated.

Several bills were introduced to reduce the monthly interest on chattel loans from 5 per cent to 1 1-2 per cent, and two levying a tax of 10 cents a pound on all oleomargarine sold in Ohio reached the hopper.

Other miscellaneous measures ranged in importance from one requiring that seats be provided for elevators to one proposing that all school buses be painted red, white and blue and use shatter-proof glass exclusively.

Subjects touched by others included outdoor advertising, fox and squirrel hunting, deficiency judgments, workmen's compensation, exempting minors from the death penalty, driver's licenses, police relief fund, bank liquidation, teachers retirement fund, mortgage moratoriums, liquor advertising, sale of beer to minors, alcoholic content of wine, free textbooks, electric service charges, and deficiency judgments.

WHAT IS CREDIT?

Credit is not something which the bank gives to you. The bank merely helps you to cash or to use more widely the credit you already have.

Your credit represents a combination of your character, your business capital, your prospects, your property, or collateral of one kind or another. If you have none of these things, you have no credit, and no bank can supply what you lack.

On the other hand, if you establish your credit with your bank by continued trustworthy dealings, you have both an asset and a reference of great value.

Also, when you need a loan for some safe, legitimate purpose, you can usually secure the necessary accommodation. That is what it means to have banking credit.

STEEL CAR HEAD DIES IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Francis E. Symons, 62, president of the Ralston Steel Car Co., died Wednesday night at his home here. He had been ill seven weeks. Mr. Symons also headed the Ralston Scales corporation and the East Columbus Building & Loan Co. The funeral will be Saturday.

DO YOU NEED PEP?

MANY folks have thin, pale blood—they're weak, feel tired, lousy and dull. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery increases the appetite, eliminates poisons from the intestines, stimulates the digestion, makes the blood redder.

Charles Sargent of 30 Irving St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "When I was growing, mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to improve my appetite. I had become thin, and felt tired all the time. I had taken only one bottle when I was eating better, put on weight, and felt stronger in every way. From my experience I know the 'Discovery' is a good tonic to build anyone up—young or old."

A CAR FOR NOTHING

JOHANNESBURG, S. A.—A motorcar was "sold" for nothing at an auction sale of second-hand cars here—and a little boy's dream came true. Among the most interested of those who looked under hoods and tinkered with gadgets before the sale was a lad who was accompanied by his father. The sale started, and presently a 1927 model, in good running order, was put up.

"Who'll bid me 50 pounds for it?" asked the auctioneer. "30" he'll take it for nothing?"

There was a roar. "That's my bid over there," said the auctioneer, pointing to the boy. Speechless with excitement, the lad signed for his purchase, and his father drove him away in it.

Clean Out Kidney Poisons

Wash Out Your 15 Miles Of Kidney Tubes

If kidneys don't pass 3 pints a day that contain nearly 4 pounds of waste matter, the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters become clogged with poisonous waste products and the danger of acid poisoning is greatly increased. Bladder passages are difficult to clean out, but kidneys are difficult to clean out.

This acid condition, brought about by poor kidney function, is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Most people watch their bowels which contain only 27 feet of intestine but neglect the kidneys which contain 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters. If these tubes or filters become clogged with poisons, they will knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't run any risk. Make sure your kidneys empty 3 pints a day.

Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

OHIO SALE TAX BAROMETER OF RETAIL SALES

Receipts to Provide Unique Way to Tell How Business is Through State

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Ohio's three cent sales tax will give the state a new and unique business barometer.

Michigan finds its sales tax an ideal economic weather-vane and Miss Eva Booth, acting director of the bureau of business research at Ohio State University declares that the tax in this state also may be used as an indication of business trends.

However, Miss Booth warns that the results in the first few months may not be truly indicative of actual business. In the first place, she points out, merchants may buy more stamp than they actually need and retail buying could also be influenced by other factors.

But as the merchants become accustomed to the tax and can correctly estimate the amount of the prepaid stamps that they require, Miss Booth believes that the tax receipts may be used as an indicator of retail buying at least.

NO REGULAR SURVEY

At present there is no general monthly survey of the volume of retail trade gathered in the state. Federal business reviews cover department store sales and other specialized lines. There exist several reliable reports on steel operations and the business research bureau makes a monthly analysis of industrial employment.

Attempts to gather monthly reports on retail buying hitherto proved too costly and now the sales tax is one full sweep furnishes economists with a "yardstick" they have long been seeking.

There remains the question as to whether the sales tax receipts will correctly reflect the activity in such businesses as the durable and heavy goods industries. In Michigan, the monthly sales tax reports tallied with other business charts over a period of several months.

On the other hand, Miss Booth says, there may be a decline in a heavy goods industry, the steel industry for example, while retail buying might surge upward due to an inflation or some similar economic scare.

Then, the sales tax receipts would be misleading. However, unless there was complete collapse, the volume would steady itself after a week or two and again could be used as a chart. For that reason, it is said, the sales tax receipts would be more accurate in comparing one year to another than it would in comparing one month to another.

SAME ARE EXEMPT

Under the Ohio law, bread and milk are not taxable. However, the Ohio bakers association and the Ohio dairy products association are available for estimates as the amounts spent for those products.

Some other commodities also are exempt but for the reason that they are already taxed. Hence, the amount of money spent on them can be correctly estimated almost to the final cent. For instance, the tax commission can tell to the final puff how many cigarettes Ohioans smoke in a month or year.

Thus, even if the sales tax receipts fall short of expectations of giving the state a new business mirror they will bridge a gap that in the past could not be spanned.

FAIR WARNING

SEATTLE, Wash.—Ben Hall and the police had a good laugh when Hall brought in a note warning him that someone was looking for him with a gun. The note was tacked on Hall's door, but he couldn't think of anyone who didn't like him, so he smilingly took it to the police and then went home to sleep. Shortly after 1 a. m. he staggered back into police headquarters. Two men with guns had entered his room, beat him almost unconscious and departed with his clothes.

PATTERN 9257

"Hi Ruthie," calls Elsa, "see my new dress!" We don't say that Ruthie will be green-eyed with envy, but she'll probably be just a wee bit jealous when she notices the tailored smartness of Elsa's frock with its contrasting scarf collar that slips so importantly under a buttoned tab in front. That stitched pleat down the front, and yet another at the back is the last word in schoolgirl trimness, you know! And the little sleeves—slashed, if you please!—are attractively puffed and caught into neat little bands. Elsa's frock is of printed broadcloth but any pretty fabric, wool or cotton, would look nice in this cunning style!

Pattern 9257 may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 requires 2 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES

MEN and women of Pickaway-co's fertile farms have enjoyed their institutes and programs which have been held during the present month, opening at Five Points on January 11 and closing at Derby today. The community gatherings this year included Five Points, New Holland, Saltcreek-twp, Pickaway-twp, Williamsport, Ashville, Commercial Point and Derby, all of which were largely attended by the farmers of the respective communities.

The men and women of the farms find that there is a definite benefit to be derived from these meetings. They are an ideal medium for the interchange of views and experiences, and they are also schools wherein are advanced the newer things which science and study have developed in the field of agriculture.

The programs are not confined entirely to the out of doors work on the farms. The housewife is also considered and has a prominent part in the institutes, and there is a wealth of change and betterment brought forth in these gatherings whereby the housewife benefits.

She learns quickly to adapt what otherwise might be considered non-essentials to bettering the home. And, like her city sister, she welcomes anything that will make her part of the partnership an easier one and one which will bring more comfort not only to herself and her family but for the neighborhood in which she lives and has her friends. In this manner the entire plan of living has been lifted and as the years roll on we are more and more coming to note that there is but little difference in the manner of living in the country and in the city, save that country folks have it just a bit better than the city dwellers because they have more privacy and more room to expand.

The educational angle of the institute is the foremost one presented, but the social and cultural angles are just as important and have their attraction particularly for the women who, in the last analysis, are the real home builders whether they live in the city or on the farm.

The institutes are to the farm men and women what conventions and organizations are to the business and professional men of the cities and towns. They meet and learn to know the men and women who are engaged in similar vocations, and the exchange of ideas helpful.

The institutes provide a grand opportunity for friends to get together in a social way, to provide entertainment for each other and to advance ideas for the betterment of the community as a whole.

Pickaway-co is known as one of the leading agricultural counties of Ohio. The various organizations supported by the men, women and children of the farms are responsible for its development and progress. The institute have accomplished a great deal in the promotion of education, culture, and sociability.

WHO SHALL FIGHT THE NEXT WAR

UNDER the provisions of a bill introduced in congress by Representative Thomas O'Malley, the front ranks of the assault battalions in the next war would be reserved exclusively for millionaires on the theory that wars are fought largely "to preserve the wealth of the capitalist." Considerations of simple justice, in the opinion of Mr. O'Malley, require that those who profit most shall "serve in the ranks before anyone else may be called."

This plan seems fair enough and the mind of the doughboy will find not a little pleasure in a contemplation of that first wave slopping through the mud and made up of the big executives and the boards of directors of steel corporations, ship builders, munitions workers and also the gentlemen who made the shoddy uniforms back in 1917, and the slickers that let in water in a hundred spots.

But, after all, war is declared by congress. Without the affirmative vote of congress we would remain permanently at peace. So, under the circumstances, would it not be equitable and just if places were left open for the statesmen who cast the die for conflict? Would it not be fair if they were given a pick and a shovel, a rifle, a couple of bandoleers of ammunition, a gas mask and a steel helmet, a half dozen grenades and a can of salmon and sent forth to make the world safe for democracy?

These questions, we feel, are worthy of serious consideration and if the suggestions were made part of the law of the land the possibilities of war would be made extremely remote.

THE NAYS HAVE IT

RECENTLY in a public debate in New Orleans a team composed of students of Newcomb College upheld the negative side of the question: "Resolved, that honesty is the best policy." They maintained that in order to be successful these days a person must be "a hypocrite, a humbug and a liar." The decision of the judges was given in their favor and it met with the wholehearted approval of the audience.

The outcome of this debate would seem to represent a triumph for the unrighteous and a defeat for the cause of goodness and truth. Before such a disturbing conclusion is reached, however, some allowances should be made for the circumstances that governed the discussion.

It took place, one must remember, in Louisiana, where the influence of the Kingfish predominates and where his ideals, apparently, have been accepted by the citizenry. What chance of success did the supporters of the time honored maxim have when all of the recent history of their state lent overwhelming aid to the opposition?

Much to his sorrow, the forgotten man is not the taxpayer.

When you start out to get rich quick you are liable to get poor quicker.

You can tell when a relief measure is working. A different group begins to cuss.

It's no sign of intelligence to be musical, says an authority. As proof, there's the saxophonist.

"Anyone who stops learning," says Mr. Ford, "is old, whether at 20 or 80." Mr. Ford doubtless doesn't recall that at 20 the average man is confident that he has learned everything.

The ways of the Californians are difficult to fathom. They pay twenty-five cents each to hear the man they defeated for Governor when they can hear the man they elected for nothing.

Little Sister

By MARGARET WIDDERMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Leila Madison, an orphan, has been trying to halt the elopement of her reckless young sister, Bet, with Addison Huntington, a romantic radical. Jerry Redmond, a newspaper reporter, has been aiding Leila because of his friendship for Addy's brother who was Jerry's college roommate. They are all at Leila's Westchester home where Addy and Jerry meet Aunt Minnie and her neighbor, Mrs. Johnston-Hedgess, mother of Orson Johnston-Hedgess, whom Leila expects to marry. They have come from Bet's New York apartment where Addy, disguised as a girl, narrowly escaped the police who sought him for questioning in connection with the whereabouts of an acquaintance named Jarecki, an abandoned orphan. Aunt Minnie tells Addy about the improvements and how the old residents of Fernwood Manor are trying to keep their bathing beach exclusive property. This shocks Addy's socialistic philosophy. Jerry phones next day and arranges an outing with Leila. Meantime Orson drops in to see Leila. Orson hints at a formal proposal but Leila isn't as excited as she expected to be. The next day Jerry arrives for their outing and drives off with Leila. Leila finds herself enjoying her interlude. As Jerry's magnetism envelops Leila, her heart beats faster. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

The world was just around the corner.

the strength of it. There aren't as many down pillows, of course, in real living. . . . And I'm a romantic idiot from any point of view you've ever heard—throwing away my money on an irresponsible fanatic because I liked his brother, being interested in China and Russia on the spot instead of decorously between other news in the morning paper, and coming horribly near falling for a young woman who has been reared to be shocked by anything but concentration on the butler's life."

"My good Jerry, our sole domestic is a woman who comes in twice a week to wash and clean," she told him. "I admit to a vague recollection of four servants in the pre-improvement days. But if my main concentration has been on seeing that things were so that an aunt, who still does dream of the butlered life, and a sister who cares a little for social things that she won't pay for, her half of her studio rent, can eat and be covered, I don't think that's enough to make you talk as much or as long as you have. Naturally, I like Heathcote Duchess to win prizes. As for the selection of dinner guests, everybody selects. When you have people to eat with you, I don't suppose you pick them out for the telephone book!"

"Irrelevant, but delightful!" said Jerry. He was paying her so much attention, plainly, that he scarcely heard when she said, "One might choose all A's one time and all Z's another. Let's try it. . . ." "You mean, darling, that I err in considering you barnacled, or signed and sealed Mrs. Johnston-Hedgess?" She flushed up.

"You do," she said, looking him straight in the eye. "Odd to think that being mistaken," said Jerry, "could make anybody completely happy. It does, I am." He pulled himself closer.

He put both arms around her. She stood on the Fernwood Manor platform with him, waiting for the train, and the world was just around the corner.

completely removed from responsible reality all about her. She could do anything, go anywhere, be anything. The world was just around the corner. . . . The Addison person once out of the way, Aunt Minnie's money would carry the two of them, and if Bet knew that she couldn't get her extras out of anybody, she'd get them herself. In her young intensity and enthusiasm, Leila had carried her family too much. Now she was going into that glamorous world where you could pick your dinner guests out of the telephone book, where you could fly to Mayan temples, where you could laugh, where you could say anything without considering the result of your speech on a sedate world or a sedate and perfect young man—where you didn't have to plan carefully careless allusions to vanished family jewelry to make up for the diamond clips on the other girl's shoulders. If you wanted a clip, you'd buy it at the 15-cent store and be happy. . . . She was going soon with any, casual, friendly, thrilling Jerry Redmond. . . . George, the jobbing kennelman, who had often lamented the day when he had a half interest in a real kennel, would rent the kennels from her, or with rapture take over all the work for a half interest. All but Juste. Surely, even flying to Yucatan, one Scottish terrier wouldn't over-weight the plane.

Jerry spoke suddenly, as she planned, responsible—though she did not realize it—even in her irresponsibility.

"Do you know where you and I have been since four this afternoon? Cloud-Cuckoo-County? Wonderland, Cockaigne; anywhere that isn't real. It's my native air, it's all right for me. But Leila—Leila, I haven't an idea, in spite of my special pleading, whether you're having a brief excursion into Cockaigne, when you really enjoy and belong to the kingdom of the actualities. And if that's the case, it's all right with me. That is, I won't enjoy it, but I'll see how it was. . . ."

He was abruptly on the train. Leila, returning, scarcely heard him. If it was Cockaigne she had been living in, she was still.

"THE BEST HAND I EVER PLAYED"

WHEN AS FINE a player as C. S. Lochridge admits that his best play was that on a particular hand, it should be worth while looking at. The hand is given below. Lochridge sat South. His contract of 4-Diamonds was doubled by West, and no wonder, as East had bid up to 3-Spades. The opening lead was the K of diamonds and then West shifted to a lead of his 8 of spades. See how you would play the hand.

Lochridge won the second lead with dummy's Ace of spades. He led dummy's Q of clubs. It held the trick, but East covered it with dummy's J of hearts was led and covered with East's Q. The Ace won the trick. South led his Ace of clubs. The 7 of hearts was overplayed with dummy's 10. By this time South had made up his mind what West held for his doubling values, nothing beyond the trump honors, which appeared enough unless South played the hand conventionally well, and had good luck also.

The 9 of clubs was led. East had to play his K. South ruffed, shortening his trumps to four, or only one more diamond than West held. This shortening of trumps was vital.

The last heart was led, and dummy's K held the trick. There were only five more tricks to go, and 3 of those had to be in trumps. The J of clubs was led. Evidently West held the missing 10 of that suit. South discarded his losing spade, and dummy was left in the lead. The holdings about the table were as shown below.

West won with his lowest trump. West held the A-J and South held the tenace Q-9, so that the doubler could win only one more defensive trick, while South must win one trick, just enabling South to fulfill his contract of 4-odd doubled. It certainly was well played.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

There isn't another actor on the stage or screen capable of playing the role of Charlie Chan, Chinese detective, with the conviction of Warner Oland.

This is the unqualified opinion of Eugene Forde, who guided the filming of Chan's newest screen problem, "Charlie Chan in London," which comes to the Grand Theatre on Friday.

"Warner Oland just happens to be the living reproduction of the character Earl Derr Biggers brought to life in his novels," Forde declares. "It doesn't matter that he's Swedish; when he steps onto the set he isn't anyone other than Charlie Chan."

AT THE CLIFTONA

Should a girl choose the colorful reckless chap who is always skating on thin ice, or the soft and staid one who proves less romantic? This problem appears regularly in real life and literature but is seldom satisfactorily answered.

In Columbia's "The Best Man Wins," the Edmund Lowe-Jack Holt starring vehicle showing Friday and Saturday at the Cliftona Theatre, Florence Rice is called upon to make the decision. How she decides makes for one of the most romantically dramatic motion pictures seen this season.

Others in the cast of this Columbia production are Bela Lugosi, J. Farrell MacDonald and Bradley Page, Eric Kenton directed.

Approximately 222,000 common barberry bushes and seedlings were destroyed on 1381 properties in 38 Ohio counties, in 1934, according to the annual report of Harry Atwood, federal agent in charge of eradication of this rust-spreading shrub.

Cod Liver Oil Was Used Years Ago as Spring Tonic

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. COD LIVER OIL was used many hundred years ago as a spring tonic. The custom appears to have originated with the English, and its continued use was

Dr. Clendenning

Then, appropriately enough, the English scientist discovered why it was a tonic and what it was a tonic for, and restored its use on a firm scientific foundation, which it now has.

The disease for which it is a tonic is usually known as "rickets," but in connection with the English origin of cod liver oil it is interesting to know that in Germany its name translated means "The English Disease."

It was first clearly described by two Englishmen, Daniel Whistler and Francis Glisson, about 1659.

This triple association of the name of the disease, and the frequency of the disease, with the English origin of cod liver oil, contains a valuable lesson for all of us. England is a country of long winters, of short winter days, of fog and cloud, of lack of sunlight, and these are exactly the factors which make for the appearance of rickets.

Exactly how it was that the English should have discovered empirically the curious fact that the liver of deep sea fish was astonishingly enough of all the things on earth best for the cure of rickets, is a matter of wondering speculation. We must think of the active fishing industry of the English and of the presence of the disease, and the observation that, after a long fishing with various remedies, it finally became a tradition that the cod liver would help it and prevent it, as one of these curious discoveries that human beings are able to stumble upon.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY

By M. McM. J.

On the evening of Jan. 9 a representative crowd of Circleville persons assembled in the public library reference room to view the pictures of "The Nests and Eggs of the Birds of Ohio," which had been presented to the library by Dr. Howard Jones, author and owner of the book, which were formally turned over to the public at that time.

The writer, who was among those present, drifted off into dreamland and in memory recalled the past when the present fine library was but a collection of a few books arranged in a small room in an upper story and the librarian donated his services.

That the people of Circleville were inclined to literary pursuits is proven by advertisements in the village papers as far back as 1834, serving notice that there would be a meeting of the Circleville Athenaeum at the library room Monday evening at such and such a date. The first meeting of the Athenaeum was held in that Methodist meeting house, May 7, 1834. W. B. Thrall, editor of The Herald, delivering an address.

Feb. 28, 1834, the Ohio legislature incorporated the Circleville Athenaeum "An institution for the dissemination of knowledge through channels of reading discussion and lectures." Sylvester Dana was elected librarian and had under his charge "one thousand books embracing a great variety of subjects" and also "the select reviews and periodicals of the day."

In 1835 R. D. Atwater was elected secretary and Edwin F. Olds, librarian.

The following year Dr. James N. Finch was chosen librarian. At this time the meetings were held in the front chamber of Dr. Olds' new building on the circle, south-west corner of E. Main-st., the building now occupied by the G. C. Murphy store.

This organization lived only three years, at the end of which time the books were sold, no one knows to whom.

In June, 1835, the Lyceum was organized, meeting in a room over Dr. Olds' drug store. To these meetings clergymen were particularly invited. "The ladies are most respectfully, yet with all due deference, also invited."

The Pickaway Lyceum was practically the same organization which flourished from 1845. G. F. Wittich describes a meeting in which the topic for discussion was "Resolved: That immigration is beneficial to this country." As Mr. Wittich had recently arrived here from Germany he was eminently gratified to have the decision in the affirmative.

There is a tradition that in 1851 the building containing the Lyceum room was burned and that upon completion of the school house the books were taken there for safe keeping, where they formed a nucleus for a school library.

For nearly twenty years the library spirit of Circleville lay dormant, then several prominent women of the town, among them Mrs. N. E. Jones, Mrs. Amos Beach, Mrs. Samuel Moore and Mrs. Kingley Ray, formed a magazine club. They collected quite a number of books and magazines which circulated among the members. When a movement to create a public library was agitated these women turned over their books to the city.

About the same time several other prominent women, among them Mrs. A. R. VanCleaf, Mrs. Crouse, Mrs. Hays, had declined to join the club just mentioned, preferring to establish a reading room for young men in connection with a chapter of the Y. M. C. A. This was about 1869, but in 1872 it became evident that the class of young men which the movement was designed to reach did not care to read and the project was abandoned.

A joint stock company or subscription library was formed, each member paying an annual fee of two dollars.

This plan evidently did not work out satisfactorily, as in January, 1873, the city council met to consider a proposition of the library trustees to donate the library to the city. The proposition was accepted and the Circleville public library became an established fact with W. Marshal Anderson as first president of the board. Mr. Anderson was a man of much culture and an enthusiastic student of archaeology. For several years a cabinet of Indian curiosities, collected by him, had a place in the library. At his death this collection, which was considered an unusually fine one, was removed.

At first no regular appropriation was made by the city government for the maintenance of the library. City council made a small allowance (about $250) for its upkeep. When the city took charge of the library a room was rented on the second floor of the Odd Fellows' hall and Edson Pauder, whose law office was in the same building, offered to take charge of the books.

This plan proving inconvenient, Miss Ella Barks was elected librarian, the first paid librarian of Circleville public library. Her first report (for two months) showed 974 volumes on the shelves besides 51 volumes of unbound magazines, 935 books were issued for this period.

During the time that the library was kept up by subscription, a series of public readings and entertainments were given under the auspices of the board of managers. These meetings were held every Tuesday evening at the library room and were free to the public, most of the literary and musical talent of the town participating. Occasionally a lecture was given and once a comedy enacted, for which a small admission was charged.

When Memorial hall was erected the library board leased the ground floor with the exception of a room used as an armory, which later was added to the library to make room for the $10,000 bequest of Dr. Marcus Brown, in memory of his son. This bequest added 3300 volumes to the library. Another citizen, Logan McPherson, added 100 volumes and at the death of Miss Gertrude Bryant, the library of her brother, about 200 volumes, was added, bringing up to date the number of books on the shelves, 26,310, besides most of the better class magazines and several newspapers.

The success of the library is due largely to the character of the women who have acted as librarians. They have been up-to-date and each as she took charge carried on the good work of her predecessor. The only ex-librarian still living is Mrs. Mollie Carper Curtin, who was for many years a faithful servant of the reading public and is remembered by many with kindest feeling. She served until her marriage to Judge Clarence Curtin.

The present incumbent, Miss Mary Wilder, and her able assistants, Wilmina Phebus and Gretchen Moeller, are faithfully upholding the traditions of the past and the citizens of Circleville are justifiably proud of their public library, which ranks second to none among the towns of its size in the state.

OHIO CAGERS FACING HEAVY WEEK'S LABOR

Wooster Trims Oberlin; Wesleyan to Face Wittenberg; Ohio Meets Cincinnati

By International News Service
Speculative fancies of Ohio's collegiate basketball fans roamed with fiendish delight today into the realm of possibilities on a dynamic-loaded week-end schedule. Basketball is the state last night was slumped in mid-week doldrums with only one game holding interest. Wooster's rejuvenated icots, who unleashed a powerful offensive last Saturday night and rimmed Oberlin, 45-28, followed through last night and whipped John Carroll's luckless cagers, 5-26.

BISHOPS FAVORED
Both the Ohio and the Buckeye conference are packed with promising tilts this week-end. Because of Wesleyan's firm grip on the Buckeye leadership and the fact the bishops are favored to win over Wittenberg Saturday, greater interest was focused on the Ohio league where a seemingly inspired Otterbein team has been providing rest.

Baldwin-Wallace, who with Xavier are technically at the top of the conference standings as the result of their one conference victory each to date, meets Toledo on Friday and follows up with a game against Findlay on Saturday.

Otterbein kicked over the bucket in the conference standings last Saturday by bouncing the touted Mount Union squad to a 42 to 24 defeat. Prior to that game, Mount Union had been one of the "king pins" in the conference, holding five consecutive victories.

Proving that their Mount Union victory was no fluke, the Otterbein team came back Tuesday night and whipped Oberlin, 55 to 9, making it all-in-all a very sad state of affairs for Oberlin on top of that Wooster victory the Saturday before.

Otterbein travels to Marietta tomorrow night for its second tilt of the week.

Other Friday games include: Muskingum at Denison, Baldwin-Wallace at Toledo, Findlay at Franklin, and Urbana at Westville.

OHIO STATE ARRAY
Interest also was beginning to fizzle today in the impending Big Ten clash Saturday between Ohio State university and Northwestern. The game, incidentally will be the only Western conference tilt on the schedule that day.

BUCKEYES STRONG DEFENSIVE TEAM

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—It's a little late to rehab the football season but to correct the impression that the 1934 Ohio State university team was a purely offensive outfit, a comparison of the 1933 and 1934 seasons shows that last year's aggregation was a better defensive organization than its predecessor.

While the same number of games were won and lost each year it's the other figures that tell the story. In 1933 Ohio's opponents piled up 59 first downs, last year 14. Two years ago the opponents made 703 yards from rushing and 89 from passing for a total of 1,922. Last year the eight opposing teams made only 432 from rushing, 418 from passes for a total of 850 yards or 342 less than the preceding year.

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

ENTIRELY OF OHIO STATE
The column today will deal entirely with Ohio State university's winter athletics—Here tis—

Idle since the holidays, the Ohio State University swimming team will get back into action Saturday afternoon when it engages the University of Cincinnati matadors at the Queen City pool.

The Notre Dame tennis team has been added to the Ohio State university schedule and the Irish netters will appear here the afternoon of May 13.

MEET MICHIGAN STATE
The Ohio State university wrestling team, fresh from a 17 to 11 win over Ohio University, will step into faster company Saturday night when it engages the Michigan State grapplers at East Lansing.

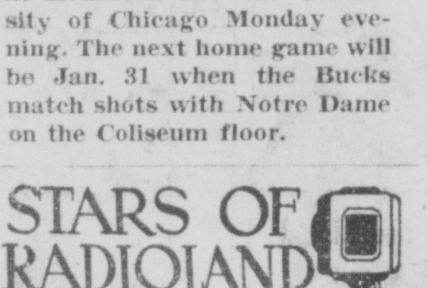

Under the direction of Coach Frank A. Riebel, the Ohio State university fencing team is in for a busy week-end. Three matches will take place at Detroit. On Friday evening the Scarlet swordsmen meet Wayne university at 9 a. m. Saturday they engage the La Salle de Tuco's team and Saturday afternoon meet Michigan State at Detroit.

BALL TEAM PLAYS
Three baseball games have been added to the Ohio State university schedule for this spring, boosting the total to 19. Ohio university will be played April 6 at Athens with a return engagement here April 30. On May 2 the Bucks will go to Toledo for a night game. Coach Floyd Stahl said three or four more games may be scheduled.

Hampered by want of a place to practice, the polo team at Ohio State university will play only two games during the indoor season. On Feb. 9, Lieut. John Murphy, coach of the Scarlet riders, will take his team to Chicago and on Feb. 16 to Illinois.

Ohio State university's basketball team will take to the road this week-end, playing Northwestern Saturday night at Evanston and the University of Chicago Monday evening. The next home game will be Jan. 31 when the Bucks match shots with Notre Dame on the Coliseum floor.

MIAMI, Jan. 24—Due to cold weather, the Barney Ross-Frankie Klink fight for the junior lightweight championship, scheduled for tonight at the Miami municipal stadium, has been postponed to next Monday.

The original card of bouts will be staged on Monday. The card includes Joe Knight vs. Tony Shucoco, Max Baer vs. Jimmy Maloney and Buddy Baer vs. Frank Davenport.

RACING PUTS HUGE SUM IN TREASURY

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Ohio's tax income from pari-mutuel betting during 1934 totaled $136,260, the annual report of the state racing commission filed with Governor Martin L. Davey disclosed today.

The commission, it was revealed, collected a total of $122,984 from the wagering booths and $13,275 from licenses, registration fees and other earnings.

Coney Island track near Cincinnati yielded the largest tax of any one track, paying $45,332 tax on $2,894,419 wagered there during the season. Meigs county had the smallest amount wagered at its county fair, only $634 being "played."

In its report, the commission said it was cooperating with the National Association of Racing commissions and that Ohio's "progressive strides in elimination of horse doping" have received national recognition.

ployees down to such a point that they have gone sour on him.

Typical of Jim's postal administration was an incident which occurred in the National Emergency Council. The Postmaster General complained that Government departments were misaddressing mail, that his Department had to spend much time readdressing.

The President asked Jim to bring in a report. Jim did. And obviously reading it for the first time, he blushed, stammered and stopped. Then, continuing to the end, he revealed that his own Department was the worst offender.

Espionage

Tales of tapped telephone wires, dictaphones in the rooms of New Deal executives, and other forms of espionage, although exaggerated, have become so numerous that many outsiders take them seriously.

The other day Oscar Chapman, hard-hitting Assistant Secretary of the Interior, was receiving a caller.

It happened that the air-regulator just behind Chapman's desk was being repaired. On its top lay some peculiar looking wires and gadgets.

The caller eyes them apprehensively.

"No you don't," he declared with emphasis. "No dictaphones taking down what I have to say."

And he walked out.

Brothers Boot 'Em In

Robert and George Watson
Among leading jockeys at Hialeah park race track are the Watson brothers, Robert, left, and George.

A BRIEF OUTLINE OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SOCIAL SECURITY PROGRAM

Old-Age Pensions

This plan creates an old age pension fund in U. S. treasury supplied by a compulsory tax on pay-rolls, half to be paid by the employer and half by the employee. The tax starts at 1 per cent Jan. 1, 1937, and reaches 5 per cent Jan. 1, 1957.

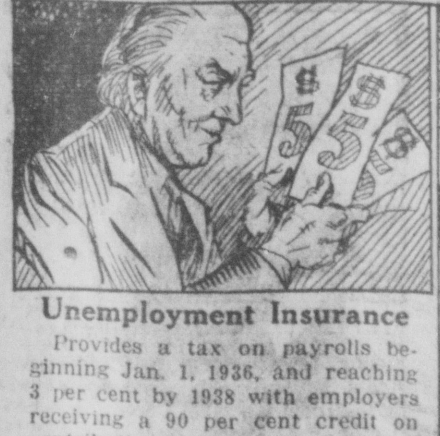

Needy Aged

For those now aged and without support, the government would appropriate $50,000,000 for the next fiscal year and $125,000,000 thereafter, to be matched by state and local payments for a maximum pension of $50 a month.

Voluntary Insurance

For voluntary old-age insurance, the government would be authorized to sell to citizens under 65 annuity certificates with maturity values ranging up to $9,000.

Unemployment Insurance

Provides a tax on payrolls beginning Jan. 1, 1936, and reaching 3 per cent by 1938 with employers receiving a 90 per cent credit on contributions they make to approved state unemployment insurance systems. The rate of benefit recommended is 50 per cent of the weekly wage to be paid for 16 weeks beginning four weeks after the employee loses his job. This is on the 3 per cent contribution basis. The maximum benefit suggested is $15 a week.

Dependent Children

The treasury would allot $25,000,000 annually to be matched by states and used when the relief administration approves state plans for children's care.

Public Health

The bill would appropriate $1,000,000 annually to be allotted among the states on a dollar-for-dollar basis for maternal and child health. Similarly, there would be appropriated $3,000,000 annually for the care of crippled children. General public health work would get $10,000,000 annually.

Administration

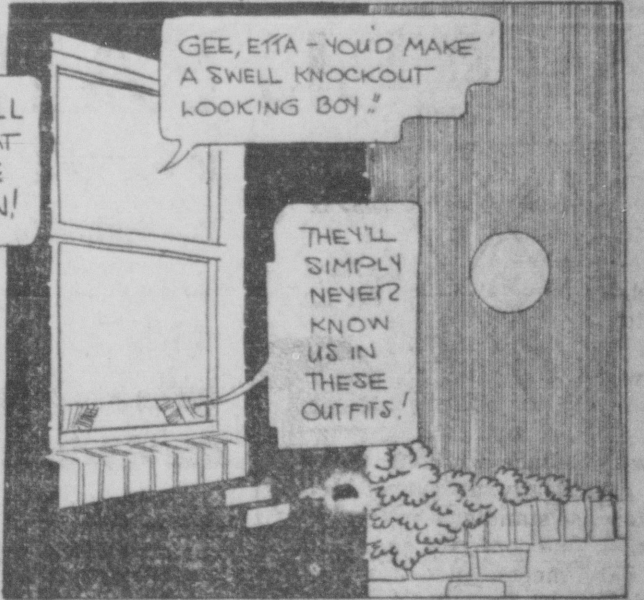

A social insurance board of three would be set up to supervise the old age and unemployment pension systems and to assist the states. The labor and treasury departments, the relief administration and the public health service all would have a share in portions of the program.

Wife Preservers

Wet proof adhesive tape, now obtainable in drug stores, will effectively seal fruit cake, spices, tea, coffee and odds and ends of leftovers, as it excludes moisture and air. It can be used over and over on tin or glass.

complication of diseases to develop with pneumonia claiming his life.

When the then President Harding called upon him to become chairman of the Red Cross, Payne accepted with the stipulation that he serve without compensation.

Payne was then 65 years of age. Serving under four presidents, he directed Red Cross activities during the 1927 Mississippi valley floods; the Florida hurricanes of 1926 and 1928; the West Indies hurricane of 1928; the drouth of 1930-31, and unemployment relief prior to organization of federal relief.

In 1917, giving up his law practice, Payne undertook his first service to the country as arbitrator of strikes during the World War.

Under President Wilson he was on the treasury board of appeals and general counsel for both the shipping board emergency fleet corporation and the U. S. railroad administration. In 1919 he became chairman of the shipping board and in 1920, secretary of the interior. In that year, also, he assumed the director generalship of railroads. In 1923, he served as co-commissioner to improve relationships with Mexico.

Aside from his interest in art, his greatest hobbies were golf and his model 1,000 acre farm in Virginia.

night the ransom was paid and the Lindbergh's expressed belief that Hauptmann was the kidnaper.

3.—Testimony of seven handwriting experts that Hauptmann wrote the fourteen Lindbergh ransom notes.

4.—The identification of Hauptmann as the man seen in New Jersey not far from the Lindbergh estate shortly before the baby was kidnapped from his home at Hopewell, N. J., on the night of March 1, 1932. Those who made this identification were: Amandus Hockmuth, Charles B. Rossiter and Mildred Whitely.

5.—Hauptmann's heavy "playing" of the stock market after the date on which the ransom was paid.

6.—Why Hauptmann quit working as a carpenter almost immediately after the date of the ransom payment.

7.—Testimony of Mrs. Cecile Barr, movie theater cashier, that Hauptmann passed a ransom bill at her window in November, 1933.

8.—The incriminating testimony of Arthur J. Koehler, wood expert that an upright in the "kidnap" ladder was part of plank found in the floor of the Hauptmann attic.

Koehler's testimony was no doubt the most effective from the state's standpoint of the entire trial. Although a wood expert he proved to be the one great detective of the Lindbergh case.

George "Bugs" Moran's gang against a N. Clark-st garage wall and mowed them down with machine gun fire were known to be affiliates of the Capone mob, then engaged in a war for supremacy against Moran's men.

Bolton is now in federal custody at St. Paul, as a suspect in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy banker.

This Picture
Is Quickly
Done

Westward Ho—the covered wagon—that symbol of pioneer days! To every American it spells romance, bravery, endurance in the face of every hardship, the conquest of the elements, the settling of a new country! In this picture, a typical pioneering scene is shown. You can carry it out in just one color—brown—and you will find it looks exactly like an etching. Aside from the pleasure of doing the picture, it will be a decided addition to any room. Sing's stitch and running stitch, only, are used to make it.

Pattern 5295 you will find a transfer pattern of a picture 10x14 inches; directions for making it; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

ROBBERS REWARDED

SHANGHAI—Starving villagers who broke into the house of Chang Hsin-Tien, a wealthy resident of a village stricken by drought, are being "rewarded". Chang was entertaining his friends and relatives at a banquet when more than 300 villagers pushed their way into the room. They thrust aside the guests and gobbled up all the food on the table. Then they ransacked the house in a search for more food. Government officials have decided that instead of punishment, the starving villagers shall be given 100 coppers each pending further relief by provincial authorities.

The modern way of making "liquid manure" for feeding house plants is to dissolve one ounce of ammonium sulfate in two gallons of water. This is applied once a month.

including Boston and obstructed traffic in Philadelphia.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—Bitter sub-zero cold swept the middle west today and, in smashing records of many years standing in the upper central states, dropped the mercury here to ten degrees below zero.

Winter's worst cold wave, almost nation-wide in extent, took an estimated toll of 25 lives in the middle west, which suffered most from the arctic blasts. In Chicago seven persons were dead of exposure.

Relief was predicted for the midwest frigid area late today. The mercury registered ten below early today at the airport weather bureau. Unofficial temperatures in the suburbs ranged as low as 15 below.

Records of 50 years standing fell in Minnesota, the coldest state. Schools were closed temporarily in several Minnesota towns and cities when the mercury registered 38 below at Duluth, 51 below at Eveleth and 32 below at Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Chinese quarters, however, feared that this "invasion," coming after settlement of boundary questions between Chahar and Jehol, which is now claimed as Manchukuo territory, had been announced, means that Japan's protectorate of Manchukuo intends likewise to annex Chahar.

Chahar, an unproductive area of nearly 100,000 square miles, controls the great caravan route between China proper and Mongolia, and is of great military importance. Seizure of Chahar would bring Japan once more into likely friction with Soviet Russia, whose influence has been growing in outer Mongolia.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Administration Is Irrate By Little Time Farley Spends at His Desk

WASHINGTON — James Aloysius Farley is a busy man these days. His goings and comings oscillate with as much regularity as the rhythm of his jaw.

On Tuesdays it is a safe bet he will be in town for Cabinet meeting. On Tuesday night it is an equally safe bet he will be on the midnight sleeper to New York. On Friday he will be back for a Cabinet meeting. And Friday night he will be off again.

Jim is extremely busy—in fact prides himself on being busy. But the time he spends at the expansive mahogany desk in the beautiful paneled office for which he thanks Herbert Hoover, is almost nil.

All of which is getting to be one of the major inside scandals of the Administration.

It is not that Jim is doing anything shady. It is the fact that as Postmaster General Jim is doing hardly anything at all.

The result is that along with the Justice Department, the Post Office has won the reputation of having the blackest mark of any in the entire New Deal.

Business Pride

The funny thing about it is that Jim prides himself on being a businessman. To make a record for himself as an efficient Postmaster is supposedly his greatest aim.

Very early in his business career, Jim tied his fate to gypsum, an essential ingredient in making plaster, and at one time was the foremost gypsum salesman in New York City.

In fact, so successful was Jim that he became manager of the Universal Gypsum Company, then blossomed forth with James A. Farley and Company, dealers in all forms of building materials, and eventually amalgamated seven other companies into one of the most important building supply companies in New York.

Whether Jim's phenomenal rise in the business world was due to the fact that he was also a power in New York politics and that politics and contracting frequently go hand-in-hand, is not recorded on the books of his company.

The important fact, however, is that when Jim became Postmaster General, he considered himself a great businessman and set out to make a record as such. To this end he pared costs to the bone. He fired postal employees right and left. He reduced services. He put force policies exactly the reverse of his Chief in the White House who was urging private business to increase wages and reduce hours.

And after one hectic year, Jim finally came forth with the joyous announcement that he had closed his books with a surplus of $12,161,415.03.

This was just like sticking out an unprotected jaw to Republican critics. They gleefully came back with figures showing that actually he had a deficit of more than $52,000,000.

Jim's ledgerdom had been accomplished by omitting the cost of franked mail, ocean and air mail contracts.

Stamp Camouflage

The actual fact is that underneath an elaborate camouflage created by selling ornate new stamp issues, Jim Farley's Post Office Department has reached the lowest state of inefficiency in years.

MERCURY HITS DEGREE ABOVE ZERO IN CITY

Nation Suffers as Frigid Wave Takes Heavy Toll of Lives

RUSH RELIEF WORK

Floods Imperil Scores in Southern Area

The coldest weather of the winter was reported in Circleville this morning when Dr. H. R. Clarke's government thermometer registered one degree above zero. Some uptown thermometers showed zero and several residents of the county reported it was below that mark on their farms.

By International News Service
Cataclysmic storms and arctic cold gripped the northern United States from Seattle to New York today, leaving many dead, visiting extreme suffering on untold thousands, costing municipalities and individuals hundreds of thousands of dollars and disrupting the nation's communication and transportation machinery.

A high barometric area in the middle west and another in the Rockies moving rapidly east inundated sections of Washington and Oregon with cloudbursts, froze the middle west with ten below zero temperatures which caused an estimated death toll of 25, and struck New York with the worst blizzard since the legendary storm of 1888.

MANY TOWNS FLOODED

On the west coast the great Columbia river poured over its banks and flooded scores of towns.

Schools were closed in Minnesota when the temperature went 38 degrees below in the city of Duluth and lower in other parts of the state.

The toll of the blizzard in New York was six dead and many injured. The snow drifted high along Broadway and other principal thoroughfares and crippled the metropolis.

Thousands were unable to get to their New York offices from the suburbs, crippling great business houses, and with roads blocked the transportation of food to communities ordinarily less than 45 minutes from Broadway became an urgent problem.

At Iroquois Falls, Ontario, the mercury went to 73 below, one of the coldest temperatures ever recorded anywhere in the world.

The same blizzard which struck New York buried all New England

WRECK RESULTS IN $15,000 SUIT

A suit for $15,000 as the result of an automobile collision at Route 104 and 22 Oct. 19, 1934, was on file in common pleas court today. It was brought by George J. Plageman, 5010 Western Hills, Cincinnati, against William Merritt, 2231 Lexington-ave, Springfield.

Joseph W. Adkins, Jr., represents the plaintiff.

Plageman charges Merritt recklessly operated his automobile striking his (Plageman's) De Sota car and driving it against a telephone pole. The plaintiff charges he received permanent injuries and spent much time in Berger hospital and Good Samaritan hospital, Cincinnati.

Six items charging negligence on Merritt's part are listed in the petition.

1,600 Square Miles of Chinese Territory Taken; Fear New Annexation

PEIPING, Jan. 24—With 50 Chinese and 19 Japanese dead or wounded, 4,000 Japanese and Manchukuan troops today halted their drive into Chahar province.

Pushing disorganized Chinese forces back in a two-day offensive, the Manchukuan troops swept over a 25-mile front, and seized control of 1,600 square miles of Chinese territory.

The towns of Kuyuan and Tungshatzu capitulated yesterday after a bombardment by airplanes and light artillery, and today the armored cars of the Japanese rolled into Tushihkow, strategic town controlling a mountain pass and a gate in the great wall.

Peiping was in terror, and officials were engaged in frantic efforts to bring peace, especially since General Chuoh-Yuan, governor of Chahar, is in Peiping, unable to lead his troops.

Japanese authorities said the troop movements were ordered to enforce an ultimatum issued to General Sung to remove garrisons

TAGS STOLEN FROM DEAD MAN LOCATED

The sheriff's office today was trying to clear up numerous angles concerning a Ford touring car which has been standing in Darby creek under the bridge on Route 104 since before Christmas.

The Ford in the last few days has been towed to the residence of Wayne Hoover, Jackson-twp.

Checking up the license numbers and motor number of the car it has been learned that the plates were stolen from the car of Francis Merz, auctioneer, whose body was found dead stuffed in a barrel in Cincinnati several weeks ago.

The tags had been transferred to the Ford which, it was learned, belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinkle, Columbus. The Hinkle car had been stolen.

The state highway wtyro structured Sheriff Charles Radeff to try to find fingerprints on the machine, but since the car has been standing out so long it is believed impossible to find finger prints.

CRITES ACTION FOR RECEIVER IN SECOND DAY

Plaintiff Spends Many Hours on Stand During Cross Examination

SONS COME NEXT

Tells of His Numerous Business Interests

The rise and fall of the immense Crites interests in Pickaway and adjoining counties were written in the common pleas court record today as attorneys for Crites, Inc., holding company of creditors of H. M. Crites, continued lengthy and exacting cross examination of Mr. Crites, principal witness in receivership action against the creditors' organization.

CONTINUES FRIDAY

The action started Wednesday morning, was to continue through Thursday and probably the greater part of Friday. Crites, Inc.'s attorneys were not presenting any witnesses but were carrying on stringent cross examination of those presented by the plaintiff.

Edwin Jones, Washington C. H. realtor, was a plaintiff witness Wednesday afternoon telling of the transaction of the Crites land in Madison-co which he bought from the Prudential Insurance Co. then sold to Col. William Cooper Proctor. Jones cleared $40,000 on the deal, Crites Inc.'s attorneys, broke it out, buying the 11 farms for $246,000 and selling them to Proctor for $286,000.

C. C. Traux, former mill operator on W. Main-st, testified prior to Jones giving information concerning the value of Mr. Crites' mill properties which Crites charges were sold at a price much too low by Crites Inc.

The defense began cross examination of Mr. Crites at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday and questioned him until 5 o'clock. He took the stand Thursday morning and was still there after noon with cross examination taking the entire time.

SONS TO FOLLOW

Mr. Crites' sons, Meinhard and George, were scheduled to testify after their father with the defense again to do considerable cross examining.

The trial is proving an object lesson to many of the city's embryo attorneys. Several have been in the courtroom at all times since the trial opened. The array of attorneys is probably more brilliant than has been in the local court room at any one time in recent years.

NEW HOLLAND, Jan. 24—

Approximately 200 names, including virtually all of New Holland's business and professional men, leading farm owners and tenants and other interested persons were signed to a petition the first part of this week, addressed to Pickaway-co Common Pleas Judge Joseph W. Adkins, in the interests of the New Holland canning factory and H. M. Crites its owner and operator for many years.

Expressing an almost unanimous approval of the operations of the local canning plant in the past years, under the supervision of Mr. Crites, the document asked Judge Adkins' utmost consideration for Mr. Crites to operate the plant again this year.

The factory is one of several properties in the bedlam of civil actions being heard in common pleas court with Mr. and Mrs. Crites as the plaintiffs and Crites, Inc., a holding company comprised of Crites' creditors.

Not only do the Crites wish to have the holding company and its transactions nullified but they are seeking to regain all properties sold by Crites, Inc.

Congressman Mel G. Underwood was being mentioned today as the possible successor to the late Common Pleas Judge T. D. Price, of Perry-co, who died last week.

Governor Martin L. Davey will appoint Price's successor and it is said Underwood can have the job if he wants it.

If he should take the position, providing it is offered, the 11th Ohio district will be without representation in the U. S. congress.

Others mentioned as possible successor's to Judge Price include W. A. Allen and U. S. McGonagle, New Lexington; D. T. Trew, Shawnee; W. A. Lentz, Crooksville, and E. P. Walser, Somerset.

NINE TO TAKE FARM CENSUS

Gehres Appoints Pickaway-co Workers; Committee Endorsements Followed

Nine persons were appointed enumerators today by E. C. Gehres, supervisor of the seventh Ohio district of the farm enumeration. They will serve Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee. The ninth was Joseph C. Peters, Mulkenberg-twp, named in place of Jesse Pitt, who was endorsed.

The other enumerators named by Gehres were:

William H. Hulse, Jackson-twp; C. O. Smith, Madison-twp; Wilbur V. Pontius, Pickaway-twp; William Beavers, Scioto-twp; William Goode, Washington-twp; Worley Timmons, Monroe-twp; Roy White, Darby-twp; Harmon Stevenson, Perry-twp, and Miss Mary Armstrong, Salt Creek-twp.

START THIS MONTH

The census will start yet this month and will be completed during February.

There are 100 inquiries on the farm schedule to be used by the enumerators.

NAME CAPONE IN MASSACRE

Bolton, Held in Kidnaping, Names Killers in St. Valentine's Day Atrocity

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—Alphonse Capone, imprisoned gang overlord, may be brought from Alcatraz island penitentiary to answer for the ghastly St. Valentine's day massacre of seven Moran gangsters here in 1929.

This was the possibility that loomed today following the disclosure by International News Service that Byron Bolton, now a federal prisoner, had made a detailed statement concerning the massacre to department of justice agents. Bolton and five other convicts also may be called today if time permits.

While police officials began to re-shuffle their scanty evidence in the gruesome mass murder federal officials were said to be hopeful of linking Capone to the crime with the object of sending him to the electric chair, if possible.

Those named as the actual murderers who lined seven of "parole rivers"

PUBLIC WORK FUND DEADLINE IS FEB. 11

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Officials of every taxing subdivision in Ohio have been notified to submit their requests for Public Works Administration aid on new projects before Feb. 11. L. A. Boulay, Ohio administrator, announced today.

The requests for PWA aid must be filed with the state administration before Feb. 11 if they are to be eligible as part of the federal $400,000,000 public works program, Boulay said.

Officials of cities, villages, counties, township bodies, schools and conservancy districts were notified to prepare lists of proposed PWA projects.

Projects that will have permanent value as improvements will receive prior consideration, the state official estimated.

Fights to Free Lea

Mrs. Luke Lea

Born to millions, Mrs. Luke Lea of Nashville, Tenn., has just sold her last possession, a portrait of her father, for money to continue her fight for release from the penitentiary of her husband, former Senator Luke Lea. Her father was Perry Warner, utility magnate. Lea left her $55, all that was left of a $10,000,000 fortune, when he went to prison in North Carolina last May for violation of banking laws.

CALL WARDEN IN PEN PROBE

"Ready to Answer All Questions," Thomas Says; Daughter May Be Next

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Asserting that "I am ready to answer all questions," Warden Preston E. Thomas, for 20 years head of Ohio penitentiary, today took the witness chair in Governor Martin L. Davey's "sweeping investigation" into conditions at the state prison.

Frazier Reams, Lucas-co prosecutor and Governor Davey's special investigator in the probe, conducted the questioning.

The warden was faced with the dual task of explaining conflicting testimony of prison employees and replying to charges that gangster Thomas (Yonnie) Licavoli was shown "favoritism."

Later during the investigation, Reams was expected to call Warden Thomas' daughter, Miss Amanda Thomas, for questioning. Survivor of eight previous investigations into his regime as prison head, Warden Thomas faced the ordeal of the latest probe with confidence.

Warden Thomas will deny that he threatened reprisals against convicts who testify against him. After the warden testifies, his daughter, mail clerk at the prison, will be called to explain why Licavoli was allowed to write an unusual number of letters as Guard Elmer Doe had testified. Several convicts also may be called today if time permits.

Later in the hearing, Reams said he would develop his charges that Licavoli through frequent visits was able to control his gangs in prison and threatened that evidence may tend to show that organized gangs have their own "parole rivers."

The jury deliberated for minutes before finding Capone guilty.

The conviction carries a ten-year sentence.

MUST REFUTE STRONG FACTS CITING GUILT

State to Complete Case This Afternoon With Minor Witnesses

KOEHLER ON STAND

Eight Angles Bind Hauptmann to Abduction

By JAMES L. KILGALLIN.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24—It's now up to Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

The state's case against him is just about in. A little more testimony today from Arthur J. Koehler, the United States government's star wood expert, a brief cross-examination by the defense, the calling of two more minor state witnesses and then the prosecution will rest—probably early this afternoon.

And then the defense begins. Attorney Lloyd Fisher of the defense will make the opening statement to the jury in Hauptmann's behalf.

The big moment of the trial will come soon afterward. That will be when the defense calls the name of the most important witness of all: Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

MAY BE DELAYED

Just when Hauptmann will walk to the witness stand was a matter of conjecture this morning. He may do so late today but most likely not until tomorrow morning. The defense would rather put him on early in the day when he's fresh and rested.

Hauptmann, first witness for the defense, will have his chance to refute—if he can—the mass of evidence piled up against him in the past twenty-two days. He denies he kidnapped and killed the Lindbergh baby, that he wrote the ransom notes, that he collected the $50,000 ransom or that he was in any way implicated in the crime.

In a word he says he is innocent. The story Hauptmann will tell on the stand therefore becomes a matter of extreme importance. It is a story the entire world is waiting to hear. It will have to be good. It will have to be more than a general denial to impress the jury of four women and eight men who for more than three weeks have been listening to powerful evidence put into the record against him.

Hauptmann has a lot of things to explain away. Chief among them is the incriminating fact that $15,000 of the ransom money was found in his possession.

Other strong pieces of state evidence Hauptmann must combat are:

1.—Testimony of Dr. John E. "Duke" Condon that Hauptmann was the mysterious "John" to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, on the night of April 2, 1932.

2.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's identification of Hauptmann's voice as that which called "Hey, Doctor" to come to the (Continued on Page Eight.)

PATTERN 9257

"Hi Ruthie," calls Elsa, "see my new dress!" We don't say that Ruthie will be green-eyed with envy, but she'll probably be just a wee bit jealous when she notices the tailored smartness of Elsa's frock with its contrasting scarf collar that slips so importantly under a buttoned tab in front. That stitched pleat down the front, and yet a topper at the back is the last word in schoolgirl trimness, you know! And the little sleeves—slashed, if you please!—are attractively puffed and caught into neat little hands. Elsa's frock is of printed broadcloth but any pretty fabric, wool or cotton, would look nice in this cunning style!

Pattern 9257 may be ordered only in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 requires 2 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

IT'S JUST OUT! OUR SPRING PATTERN BOOK is a veritable Fashion Parade of smart styles to help you plan and make your spring wardrobe. Forty pages full of style news of interest to every woman... stunning designs for the house and for town wear! Among the special articles are descriptions of the spring fabrics and how to dress the small child. SEND FOR YOUR COPY NOW! PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS BUT IT COSTS ONLY TEN CENTS WHEN ORDERED WITH A PATTERN. PATTERN

OHIO SALE TAX BAROMETER OF RETAIL SALES

Receipts to Provide Unique Way to Tell How Business is Through State

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24.—Ohio's three cent sales tax will give the state a new and unique business barometer.

Michigan finds its sales tax an ideal economic weather-vane and Miss Eva Booth, acting director of the bureau of business research at Ohio State University declares that the tax in this state also may be used as an indication of business trends.

However, Miss Booth warns that the results in the first few months may not be truly indicative of actual business. In the first place, she points out, merchants may buy more stamp than they actually need and retail buying could also be influenced by other factors.

But as the merchants become accustomed to the tax and can correctly estimate the amount of the prepaid stamps that they require, Miss Booth believes that the tax receipts may be used as an indicator of retail buying at least.

NO REGULAR SURVEY

At present there is no general monthly survey of the volume of retail trade gathered in the state. Federal business reviews cover department store sales and other specialized lines. There exist several reliable reports on steel operations and the business research bureau makes a monthly analysis of industrial employment.

Attempts to gather monthly reports on retail buying hitherto proved too costly and now the sales tax is one full sweep furnishes economists with a "yardstick" they have long been seeking.

There remains the question as to whether the sales tax receipts will correctly reflect the activity in such businesses as the durable and heavy goods industries. In Michigan, the monthly sales tax reports tallied with other business charts over a period of several months.

On the other hand, Miss Booth says, there may be a decline in a heavy goods industry, the steel industry for example, while retail buying might surge upward due to an inflation or some similar economic scare.

Then, the sales tax receipts would be misleading. However, unless there was complete collapse, the volume would steady itself after a week or two and again could be used as a chart. For that reason, it is said, the sales tax receipts would be more accurate in comparing one year to another than it would in comparing one month to another.

SAME ARE EXEMPT

Under the Ohio law, bread and milk are not taxable. However, the Ohio bakers association and the Ohio Dairy products association are available for estimates as the amounts spent for those products.

Some other commodities also are exempt but for the reason that they are already taxed. Hence, the amount of money spent on them can be correctly estimated almost to the final cent. For instance, the tax commission can tell to the final puff how many cigarettes Ohioans smoke in a month or year.

Thus, even if the sales tax receipts fall short of expectations of giving the state a new business mirror they will bridge a gap that in the past could not be spanned.

FAIR WARNING

SEATTLE, Wash.—Ben Hall and the police had a good laugh when Hall brought in a note warning him that someone was looking for him with a gun. The note was tacked on Hall's door, but he couldn't think of anyone who didn't like him, so he smilingly took it to the police and then went home to sleep. Shortly after 1 a. m. he staggered back into police headquarters. Two men with guns had entered his room, beat him almost unconscious and departed with his clothes.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

Trims Oberlin; Wea-
to Pace Wittenberg;
Ohio Meets Cincinnati

National News Service
culative fancies of Ohio's state basketball fans roamed fiendish delight today into realm of possibilities on a dycable-loaded week-end schedule.
Basketball is the state last night
slumped in mid-week dol-with only one game holding rest. Wooster's rejuvenated who unleashed a powerful last Saturday night and med Oberlin, 45-28, followed high last night and whipped
Carroll's luckless cagers.

BISHOPS FAVORED
Both the Ohio and the Buckeye
ference are packed with promtilts this week-end. Because Wesleyan's firm grip on the key leadership and the fact
Bishops are favored to win
Wittenberg Saturday, greater rest was focused on the Ohio where a seemingly inspired rbein team has been providing udwin Wallace, who with Xavare technically at the top of conference standings as the reof their one conference victory to date, meets Toledo on Fri-and follows up with a game

at Findlay on Saturday.
Oberlin kicked over the bucket in conference standings last Friday by bouncing the touted at Union squad to a 42 to 24
win. Prior to that game, Mount ion had been one of the "king in the conference, holding consecutive victories.

oving that their Mount Union
ory was no fluke, the Otterteam came back Tuesday and whipped Oberlin, 55 to making it all-in-all a very sad of affairs for Oberlin on top that Wooster victory the Sat-day before.

Herbain travels to Marietta to-row night for its second tilt of week.
Other Friday games include:
Kalamazoo at Denison, Baldwin
at Toledo, Findlay at Midland, and Urbana at Westville.

OHIO STATE ARRAY
Interest also was beginning to today in the impending Big clash Saturday between Ohio university and Northwest.
The game, incidentally, will be only Western conference tilt
the schedule that day.

BUCKEYES STRONG DEFENSIVE TEAM
COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—It's a lit-tate to refresh the football se-but to correct the impression of the 1934 Ohio State univerteam was a purely offensive unit, a comparison of the 1933 1934 seasons shows that last year's aggregation was a better defensive organization than its predecessor.

While the same number of games were won and lost each year the other figures that tell the story. In 1933 Ohio's opponents led up 59 first downs, last year
Two years ago the opponents made 703 yards from rushing and from passing for a total of 192. Last year the eight opposing teams made only 432 from rushing and 418 from passes for a total of 850 yards or 342 less than the preceding year.

ENTIRELY OF OHIO STATE
The column today will deal entirely with Ohio State university's winter athletics. Here it is:
Idle since the holidays, the Ohio State University swimming team will get back into action Saturday afternoon when it engages the University of Cincinnati swimmers at the Queen City pool.

The Notre Dame tennis team has been added to the Ohio State university schedule and the Irish netters will appear here the afternoon of May 13.

MEET MICHIGAN STATE
The Ohio State university
wrestling team, fresh from a 17 to 11 win over Ohio University, will step into faster company Saturday night when it engages the Michigan State
grapplers at East Lansing.

Under the direction of Coach
Frank A. Riebel, the Ohio State university fencing team is in for a busy week-end. Three matches will take place at Detroit. On Friday evening the Scarlet sword-smen meet Wayne university at 9
a. m. Saturday they engage the La Salle de Tuco team and Saturday afternoon meet Michigan State at Detroit.

BALL TEAM PLAYS
Three baseball games have been added to the Ohio State university schedule for this spring, boosting the total to 19. Ohio university will be played April 6 at Athens
with a return engagement here April 30. On May 2 the Bucks will go to Toledo for a night game.
Coach Floyd Stah said three or four more games may be scheduled.

Hampers by want of a place to practice, the polo team at Ohio State university will play only two games during the indoor season.
On Feb. 9, Lieut. John Murphy, coach of the Scarlet riders, will take his team to Chicago and on Feb. 16 to Illinois.

Ohio State university's basketball team will take to the road this week-end, playing Northwestern Saturday night at Evanston and the University of Chicago Monday evening. The next home game will be Jan. 31 when the Bucks match shots with Notre Dame on the Coliseum floor.

RACING PUTS HUGE SUM IN TREASURY

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Ohio's tax income from pari-mutuel betting during 1934 totaled $136,260, the annual report of the state racing commission filed with Governor Martin L. Davey disclosed today.

The commission, it was revealed, collected a total of $122,984 from the wagering booths and $13,275 from licenses, registration fees and other earnings.

Coney Island track near Cincinnati yielded the largest tax of any one track, paying $45,332 tax on $2,894,419 wagered there during the season. Meigs county had the smallest amount wagered at its county fair, only $634 being "played."

In its report, the commission said it was cooperating with the National Association of Racing commissions and that Ohio's "progressive strides in elimination of horse doping" have received national recognition.

Brothers Boot 'Em In

Robert and George Watson

Old-Age Pensions
This plan creates an old age pension fund in U. S. treasury supplied by a compulsory tax on payrolls, half to be paid by the employer and half by the employee. The tax starts at 1 per cent Jan. 1, 1937, and reaches 6 per cent Jan. 1, 1957.

Needy Aged
For those now aged and without support, the government would appropriate $50,000,000 for the next fiscal year and $125,000,000 thereafter, to be matched by state and local payments for a maximum pension of $30 a month.

Voluntary Insurance
For voluntary old-age insurance, the government would be authorized to sell to citizens under 65 annuity certificates with maturity values ranging up to $9,000.

Unemployment Insurance
Provides a tax on payrolls beginning Jan. 1, 1938, and reaching 3 per cent by 1938 with employers receiving a 90 per cent credit on contributions they make to approved state unemployment insurance systems. The rate of benefit recommended is 50 per cent of the weekly wage to be paid for 16 weeks beginning four weeks after the employee loses his job. This is on the 3 per cent contribution basis. The maximum benefit suggested is $15 a week.

Dependent Children
The treasury would allot $25,000,000 annually to be matched by states and used when the relief administration approves state plans for children's care.

Public Health
The bill would appropriate $4,000,000 annually to be allotted among the states on a dollar-for-dollar basis for maternal and child health. Similarly, there would be appropriated $3,000,000 annually for the care of crippled children. General public health work would get $10,000,000 annually.

Administration
A social insurance board of three would be set up to supervise the old age and unemployment pension systems and to assist the states. The labor and treasury departments, the relief administration and the public health service all would have a share in portions of the program.

Wife Preservers

Wet proof adhesive tape, now obtainable in drug stores, will effectively seal fruit cake, spices, tea, coffee and odds and ends of leftovers, as it excludes moisture and air. It can be used over and over on tin or glass.

H.B. PAYNE TAKEN AT 79

prior to organization of federal relief.

In 1917, giving up his law practice, Payne undertook his first service to the country as arbitrator of strikes during the World War.

Under President Wilson he was on the treasury board of appeals and general counsel for both the shipping board emergency fleet corporation and the U. S. railroad administration. In 1919 he became chairman of the shipping board and in 1920, secretary of the interior. In that year, also, he assumed the directorship of the U. S. bureau of mines. In 1921, he served as a special agent in the U. S. bureau of investigation, and in 1922, he was director of the U. S. bureau of investigation.

Payne was the victim of age. Serving under ten presidents, he directed Red Cross activities during the 1927 Mississippi valley floods; the Florida hurricanes of 1926 and 1928; the West Indies hurricane of 1925; the drought of 1930-31, and unemployment relief night the ransom was paid and the Lindberghs expressed belief that Hauptmann was the kidnaper.

3. Testimony of seven handwriting experts that Hauptmann wrote the fourteen Lindbergh ransom notes.

4. The identification of Hauptmann as the man seen in New Jersey not far from the Lindbergh estate shortly before the baby was kidnapped from his home at Hopewell, N. J., on the night of March 1, 1932. Those who made this identification were Amandus H. K. Smith, Charles B. Rossiter and Mildred Whitely.

5. Hauptmann's heavy "playing" of the stock market after the date on which the ransom was paid.

6. Why Hauptmann quit working as a carpenter almost immediately after the date of the ransom payment.

7. Testimony of Mrs. Cecile Barr, movie theater cashier, that Hauptmann passed a ransom bill at her window in November, 1933.

8. The incriminating testimony of Arthur J. Koehler, wood expert that an upright in the "kidnap ladder" was part of plank found in the floor of the Hauptmann attic.

Koehler's testimony was no doubt the most effective from the state's standpoint of the entire trial. Although a wood expert he proved to be the one great detective of the Lindbergh case.

NAME CAPONE

George "Bugs" Moran's gang against a N. Clark-st garage wall and mowed them down with machine gun fire were known to be affiliates of the Capone mob, then engaged in a war for supremacy against Moran's men.

Bolton is now in federal custody at St. Paul, as a suspect in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy banker.

PATTERN 5295

by Alice
Brooks

This Picture
Is Quickly
Done

Westward Ho, the covered wagon—that symbol of pioneer days! To every American it spells romance, bravery, endurance in the face of every hardship, the conquest of the elements, the setting of a new country! In this picture, a typical pioneering scene is shown. You can carry it out in just one color brown and you will find it looks exactly like an etching. Aside from the pleasure of doing the picture, it will be a declined addition to any room. Sing a stitch and running stitch, only, are used to make it.

1. Pattern 5295 you will find a transfer pattern of a picture 10x14 inches; directions for making it; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

MERCURY HITS

including Boston and obstructed traffic in Philadelphia.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24. Bitter sub-zero cold swept the middle west today and, in smashing records of many years standing in the upper central states, dropped the mercury here to ten degrees below zero.

Winter's worst cold wave, almost nation-wide in extent, took an estimated toll of 25 lives in the middle west, which suffered most from the arctic blasts. In Chicago seven persons were dead of exposure.

Relief was predicted for the midwest frigid area late today.

The mercury registered ten below early today at the airport weather bureau. Unofficial temperatures in the suburbs ranged as low as 15 below.

Records of 50 years standing fell in Minnesota, the coldest state. Schools were closed temporarily in several Minnesota towns and cities when the mercury registered 38 below at Duluth, 51 below at Eveleth and 32 below at Minneapolis and St. Paul.

ROBBERS REWARDED

SHANGHAI—Starving villagers who broke into the house of Chang Hsin-Tien, a wealthy resident of a village stricken by drought, are being "rewarded". Chang was entertaining his friends and relatives at a banquet when more than 300 villagers pushed their way into the room. They thrust aside the guests and gobbled up all the food on the table. Then they ransacked the house in a search for more food. Government officials have decided that, instead of punishment, the starving villagers shall be given 100 coppers each pending further relief by provincial authorities.

The modern way of making "liquid manure" for feeding house plants is to dissolve one ounce of ammonium sulfate in two gallons of water. This is applied once a month.
